Envirobank to deploy ~200 Envipco Reverse Vending Machines in Victoria, Australia, following the announced Victoria Container Deposit Scheme

Amersfoort, The Netherlands – (April 19, 2023)

Envipco, a global provider of recycling systems and reverse vending machines (RVMs), today announced that Envirobank, Envipco's Australian distributor of RVM systems and technologies, is expected to deploy approximately 200 Envipco RVMs in Zones 2 and 5 of Victoria.

Envirobank will operate automated collection points using Envipco RVM technologies, and the machines are expected to begin installation within the coming months. The news follows the introduction of the Victoria Container Deposit Scheme, which will start on the 1st of November 2023, announced by the Minister for the Environment in the state of Victoria on April 14, 2023.

"We are very pleased that our proven and highly professional Australian distributor has been selected to automate collection sites as the state of Victoria embarks on an ambitious Deposit Return Scheme. We are proud to see a positive result of the tender process, and the conclusion of the anticipated legislation," remarks Bob Lincoln President of Envipco.

Envirobank is an established operator in Australia with existing collection sites in New South Wales, Queensland, and the Northern Territory. The addition of Victoria represents a strengthened foothold in the maturing Australian market.

"Victoria will be a significant addition to Envirobank's network and will utilise unique outdoor kiosks in the regional Zone 2, and Envipco Optima machines with charity groups in metro Zone 5. The initiative is set to make recycling easy and efficient for consumers in Victoria. Australia continues to be an important focus market for Envipco as Deposit Return Schemes mature and the country continues to develop collection sites for deposit returns." continues Lincoln.
